ADVISED PORTE TO ACCEPT

International Fleet Sailed
From Grecian Port
Today.

MUSSLMANS ARE UNDISTURBED

Berlin, Nov. 25.—The foreign office emphatically denies that Turkey's attitude is due to German influences. So far from this being true, it is said that the sultan is actually angry at Germany because the foreign office has repeatedly advised him to accept the demands of the powers.

FLEET OF POWERS NOW

ON ITS WAY EAST.
Athens, Nov. 25.—The international fleet, assembled at Piræus, for the purpose of making a naval demonstration against Turkey, in support of the demands of the powers, for financial control of Macedonia, sailed at noon today under sealed orders. The British and French torpedo boats were left behind to keep up communication with the fleet.

QUIETNESS REIGNS IN

TURKEY'S CAPITAL.
Constantinople, via Sofia, Nov. 25.—The ambassadors of the powers, at a conference just held, decided to proceed with the naval demonstration as the best reply to the port's note. There is absolutely no sign among the Mussulmans of Constantinople that they are in the least disturbed concerning the question of the financial control of Macedonia. The vast majority are not aware that such a question exists. The aspect of the city is perfectly normal and there appears to be no chance of an anti-Christian movement. The word shall be given in high quarters.

CHAFFEE'S RETIRING
MAKES MANY CHANGES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—The announcement of the intention of General A. R. Chaffee to go on the retired list several months before he would ordinarily retire, has produced the usual crop of candidates who wish to avail themselves of the privilege of advancement to a higher grade. Nearly every colonel of the line and staff has filed his papers for consideration of the individual claim for promotion to the grade of brigadier general. In those cases where the officer would under the usual circumstances, go on the retired list with the next higher grade on account of service in the civil war, the president will not make the appointment. It is also announced at the department that only one more high ranking officer will be made a major general, and that is General A. W. Greely, the chief signal officer. He is likely to be advanced in December or January, as soon as General Chaffee goes on the retired list. During the coming year there will be two retirements from the grade of lieutenant general and there are scores of applicants for the two prospective vacancies.

WEEKLY REPORT MADE ON COTTON BY MILLER & CO.

New York, Nov. 25.—In their weekly review of the cotton situation, Miller & Co. say: "The Russian political situation is again boiling, and the empire is passing through a period of toil and trouble, with revolutionary agitators active in every part of the empire. So far, cotton has not suffered from these new developments, but there is fear that the Paris money market may be thrown into a panic if the throne should be threatened. There were rumors of a panic in Paris but fortunately they proved unfounded."

The Southern Cotton association has inaugurated a new campaign to induce farmers to hold the balance of their crops for 15 cents. The success of the organization in the past has been so brilliant that many farmers will undoubtedly accept the present advice, and the falling off in the movement may be expected after the present month. It may happen that

The New King and Queen, Their Boy and Their Palace

Christiania, Norway, Nov. 25.—King Haakon and Queen Maud, with their young son Alexander, soon to be named Crown Prince Olaf, who are expected to arrive in Norway today, will take up their abode in the Christiania castle, a palace which was ordered built by the Norwegian parliament in 1822, but was not finished until 1848.

On entering Christiania the eye is at once caught by the castle situated high above the sea level and affording a grand view of the Norwegian capital, but most beautiful the castle presents itself when seen from the fashionable "promenade."

The arrangement and appointments of the interior harmonize perfectly with the exterior. The main entrance is found in the great porch facing the "promenade." Broad stairs lead from the ground floor to the second and main floor that is covered with beautiful carpets made in Norway.

In the front facing south are found the royal apartments. In the billiard room which King Oscar used is found the valuable gift presented by Norwegian citizens at the king's silver wedding. This gift, as well as other ornaments presented by Norwegian citizens, will most likely remain in the castle, a friendly settlement of this point having been reached. The elaborate furniture, belonging to King Oscar, however, is on its way to Stockholm.

It was quite natural that the provisional government of Norway fixed their eyes on Prince Charles of Denmark, when the time for choosing a king of Norway had arrived. Not only have Denmark and Norway been close friends for centuries but the openly displayed sympathy with which the Danes looked at the successful outcome of the union strife surely influenced the Norwegian parliament in choosing a king.

The personal qualifications of Prince Charles make him especially adapted for his future high office. It must be admitted that the prince is rather young, 33, but he is old enough to know what he owes himself, his relations and the people of which he is going to be the ruler. Like the rest of his sisters and brothers, he has received a most careful education. He passed the examinations required for all Danish naval officers, and he subsequently did good service in the Danish and the English navy. Only a month ago he was appointed captain.

Prince Charles received the fundamental part of his education, together with his brother, two years older, Prince Christian, and he has to work hard to keep pace. He had to rise at 7 o'clock in the morning, and then it was study all day long, with two walks and lunch interspersed.

KING HAAKON.

QUEEN MAUD.

This Spartan education has not been without importance for the development of Prince Charles' character, which, it is generally said, has become fast and firm, almost hard, so that there is no reason to expect that the new king of Norway should be a plaything for his surroundings.

KING HAAKON'S CHRISTIANIA PALACE.

The training of Queen Maud, the king of England's favorite daughter, at the English court, is the best guarantee for her being fully competent to fill her future high station in life as queen of Norway.

The princess is not popular in Denmark, as she never has interested herself particularly in Danish affairs or persons. It is said that she is interested in music and painting.

Their little son is only two years old and he is said to be an advanced boy, who speaks both English and Danish, and who, with great dignity, salutes visitors in a military manner. The new king and queen were married November 6, 1893.

THE CEREMONIES OF FORMAL RECEPTION.

Christiania, Nov. 25.—Everything is in readiness for the reception of the Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark, who have been elected the future rulers of Norway by the recent plebiscite. A Norwegian squadron is anchored in the Christiania Fjord, to await the arrival of the Danish man-of-war, which will bring the future king and his family from Copenhagen. The warship will be escorted by a guard of honor consisting of a number of Norwegian, Danish, British and German warships. The combined fleets will escort the ship bearing the royal family to this city.

Tomorrow the future king and queen will hold their state entry into the capital. The city is generally decorated with the Norwegian and Danish colors and presents a fine spectacle. Thousands of visitors from all parts of the country and from other countries are in town, to witness the ceremonies connected with the arrival of the future king. According to the program the king will head a procession immediately upon his arrival and will be escorted to the government palace, where he will take the oath and will be crowned King of Norway under the name of Carl IV. The new Norwegian flag, bearing a golden lion on a purple field, is displayed everywhere, as are pictures of the new king and his family. The people are very enthusiastic and it is not expected that there will be any hostile demonstration by those who voted against the king at the plebiscite.

RECEIVED WITH MARKED
EVIDENCES OF WELCOME.

Christiania, Nov. 25.—State entry of King Haakon VII. and Queen Maud into this city took place this afternoon. The new sovereigns were welcomed with every demonstration of good will.

ASSAILANT OF ALEX.
BOWIE IS BOUND OVER

TRAIN PORTER BRIGGS WILL ANSWER TO GRAND JURY FOR STRIKING GALLUP COAL BARON

R. H. Briggs, the train porter who assaulted Hon. Alex. Bowie, of Gallup, at the local station on the night of October 25, will be compelled to answer to the grand jury for the offense. Although Briggs has laid in jail since the latter part of October, when a preliminary hearing was given him, no amount of bond was fixed at that time, because the defendant expected to get an additional witness in the case. The witness Briggs expected to get was a train porter on the train on which he was running on the night of the assault, who Briggs said would testify that he (Briggs) did not leave the train on the night in question. Apparently this witness could not be found.

The amount of Briggs' bond is placed at $250.

At the preliminary hearing, F. M. Clough, of San Marcel, testified that he was quite certain that Briggs was the man who struck Bowie in the face, and Attorney Ellsworth Ingalls testified that he could not positively identify Briggs, but he looked very much like the man.

OBJECTED TO JUDGE
PARKER'S PRESENCE

The presence of Judge Frank W. Parker, of Las Cruces, precipitated a rather unusual colloquy between Judge Abbott and the attorneys in the Santa Fe replevin case yesterday afternoon. Through courtesy, Judge Abbott offered Judge Parker the application of the plaintiff asking the court to require the defendant to produce evidence asked for in the motion under argument. The document had no more than been handed to Judge Parker, when Attorney Field raised the question, "Would Judge Parker be disqualified to sit upon this matter should it come before the supreme court of the territory, for the part he was taking in the proceedings?" Judge Parker replied by saying that he would retire if his presence in any way embarrassed the court or the counsel.

Judge Abbott then explained that he merely gave Judge Parker the application to read so that he would understand what was taking place; the arguments being made. He thought that it would be more interesting to him.

Mr. Lathrop, who had the floor, said that he would waive any objection against Judge Parker examining the application, and he was sure that his associates would do likewise.

Mr. Field said that he did not think that Judge Parker's examination of the application would in any way embarrass either the court or the counsel, but he would not like to have him disqualified in any way from sitting on the supreme bench should the case be taken to that court.

Judge Parker arose and withdrew.

MOTION REBATE CASE
UNDER ADVISEMENT

COURT SETS DECEMBER 18 AS DAY FOR RENDERING DECISION.

The arguments in the Santa Fe rebate case, which occupied the attention of the Second district court yesterday, were finished last evening, and Gardner Lathrop, Judge Waldo and other visiting attorneys taking part left the city last night for their various homes. The court took the arguments under advisement and will render a verdict on the motion in question on December 18.

No decision has as yet been rendered on the quo warrantu action, which was argued before Judge Abbott on Thursday, the filing of a brief in the case, delaying a decision materially.

The court was occupied this morning with the tail ends of several cases. A decision was rendered in the divorce suit case of Mrs. William G. Shadrach, against her husband, Dr. William Shadrach. The plaintiff was granted an unconditional divorce and allowed to resume her maiden name, Conne Rice.

ART DEPARTMENT OF THE WOMAN'S CLUB

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON DIS-CUSSED IMPORTANT SUBJECTS AND RENDERED PROGRAM.

Friday afternoon in the club parlors of the Commercial club building the art department of the Woman's club gave an interesting program to a good sized audience.

"Art in Washington," ably presented in a finished paper upon the subject by Mrs. Rodley, master over and out in the judgment of her hearers as one of the best papers ever presented to the club in its history. Mrs. Rodley wrote most entertainingly of her observations while in the capital, and was accorded close attention.

Mrs. Bittner's dealing with Whistler and his eccentricities, gave a clear insight into the character and the scope of work of this celebrated impressionist, who was both painter and poet.

An excellent reading by Mrs. Rice upon "Art Better as Master of Decorative Art Work," put her hearers in touch with the man and the genius which made the Pan-American and St. Louis expositions exponents of all that is best in decorative art.
